FATHER FIGURE - A RESTORATION STORY

June 17, 2007. Matt Clay's first Father's Day as a father. His wife and firstborn son commemorated the occasion with an invaluable gift—a Bible to study during this new season. Almost two decades later, he's still reading that Bible daily, a constant presence in his fatherhood journey. "I don't think I could have imagined how much I would feel naked without it; how much I need it." Matt, who grew up without his father, now leads a discipleship ministry for young men. Asked why he decided to restore, rather than replace, this Bible, he explains: "It's just not the same as the one you've cried in, rejoiced with, held at funerals, read in front of those boys, used around the dinner table. It's not that one." Read more of the story at scriptura.co/blog/father-figure
